

Coronavirus Update to Our Members & Customers Regarding Business Operations

As your local cooperative, neighbors and fellow community members, we take our responsibility to you very seriously. While information regarding the COVID-19 coronavirus keeps developing, Wabash will monitor the recommendations of local, state and national public health officials to safely operate while ensuring you stay connected.

As a critical utility we are accustomed to working in crisis situations. We have trained in, and prepared for, emergency/disaster response and are able to modify business operations on short notice in order to provide continuity of service. We understand how valuable your services are to locating accurate information and staying engaged with family, friends and colleagues.

Equally important is your wellbeing and that of our employees and community. We are using best practices, good judgment and safety precautions to serve the public who find themselves increasingly isolated by the virus. Should an onsite visit be required, our technicians and field teams will take extra measures to ensure your safety, and theirs, before entering your home or business.

Our Customer Experience team remains available to answer your calls, respond to emails, and assist you in person as well. We want to remind you that we do have a drive thru at our Louisville location. Payments can also be dropped off at any location in the drop boxes. If help is needed please reach out to us, using these contact methods:
